

New York State Psychological Association
Division on Addictions Presents:
The Future of Clinical Psychology Conference
Friday October 28th 2011

A wide range of prominent clinicians and researchers have observed with alarm that Clinical Psychology is a field under stress. Clinical Psychologists are currently wrestling with diminishing reimbursement rates from insurance companies, increased competition from Masters-level therapists, a decrease in the number of internships available for students, rules and regulations that hamper our ability to successfully compete, and pessimistic predictions from some of the leaders in our field.

Believing that it is time for Clinical Psychologists to reaffirm the many strengths that they do have and to begin to identify, explore, and create compelling strategies and solutions for the future, the NYSPA Division on Addictions is sponsoring a one-day conference on the Future of Clinical Psychology; it will be held at New York University on Friday, October 28th, 2011. The conference will include speakers who: (1) have successfully developed innovative and vibrant practices and organizations; and/or (2) have been wrestling with new visions for the future.

This is a free conference.

All Psychologists are welcome at this event; we especially hope that Doctoral Students and Early Career Psychologists will attend. For more information, please contact Scott Kellogg, PhD at: scott.kellogg@nyu.edu

This conference is co-sponsored by the New York University Department of Psychology.

Location: New York University, 19 University Place, Room 102, New York, NY 10003

9:30am       Arrival and Registration

10:00am     Session One:

Richard Juman, PsyD: Introduction

Scott Kellogg, PhD: Fighting for the Future of Clinical Psychology – Embracing the Four Energies

Andrew Tatarsky, PhD: Integrative Harm Reduction Psychotherapy

Heather Nash, PhD and Colleagues: Expanding the Wheel – The Successful Integration of Psychology into Hospital Practice

Q & A

12:00pm Lunch

Location: New York University, Silver Building, 31 Washington Place, Room 206,
New York, NY 10003

1:00pm Session Two:

Jama Adams, PhD: Making a difference and making a living: doing good and profitable work during hard economic times.

Roy Aranda, PsyD, JD: Forensic Psychology - Got a "Lesson Plan?": Lessons Learned 101

Rebecca Gonzalez, PhD: Trauma

Elizabeth Kooperkamp, PhD: Children and Schools

Q & A

2:30pm Break

3:00pm Session Three:

Robert Grossmark, PhD: Group Psychotherapy

Byron Woollen, PhD: Organizational Consulting

Carrie Wilkins, PhD: Group Practice

Neta Tal: A Student's Perspective

Q & A

4:30pm

Discussion: Richard Juman, PhD & Neta Tal

5:00pm Conference Ends